CRM Integration With Keygen - The main feature of this application is its simplicity: when you start it, you can begin working immediately and don't need to learn anything. By using this program, you can integrate the calling records of Microsoft Dynamics

CRM with your IVR system and establish a communication between the applications. For instance, you can redirect contacts who try to call a certain number to CRM by adding them to the persons list on the platform. With a few clicks, you can enable certain functions, such as adding a phone number to the phone book or not enabling the calls, according to the certain caller. The application has a number of tools, such as a dialing queue, a list of contacts, a person search, a person finder, a phone table, a query manager, a call time manager, a call recording (the feature is included in its basic version only), a number of events, such as the event "call received", and many more. You can customize the program interface by adding actions, tools, pop-ups and screens, including the ICR-form and CRM-form, the CRM-voice mail screen, a CRM-report, the person finder report, etc. The program also supports large databases and data synchronization using the connection with the MS SQL Server databases, including the localhost database, the MS SQL Server on the Internet and MS SQL Server on the Internet, as well as the MS SQL Server on the cloud. In addition, you can use this program for initiating the services of the IVR system or triggers certain functions by receiving certain calls. With CTI for MS-CRM Integration, you can make a simple, reliable and intuitive communication between the business processes of CRM and your IVR system. CTI for MS-CRM Integration (version 4.8.6), Application Requirements, Installation Notes. We

What's New in the CTI For MS-CRM Integration?

The tool is compatible with Windows 2000-10 editions in 32/64-bit-mode. It allows you to add a connection to Microsoft Dynamics CRM by using a Microsoft Dynamics

CRM Server or a Microsoft Dynamics CRM Online server. You can modify the tabs which can be viewed during the phone call to improve your workflow. For example, you can enable view-only by clicking the name of the tab. It enables you to modify the tabs

(such as adding new call types) and modify the order the tabs are displayed. With CTI for MS-CRM Integration you can add phone numbers to the list in CRM. You can filter the list by using the number of phones, start time and end time, duration of the call, or name of the person calling. The caller name can also be based on the value of a certain attribute in CRM. Units such as account, activity, opportunity, and contract can be related to a customer using CTI for MS-CRM Integration. In this case, the program allows you to initiate a phone call to the customer during a specific time frame to ask for information. The information can be added to an entity in CRM. This relation is called the related entity in CTI. You can select a date for the call. You can set up message transfers in CRM to follow-up or alert the customer after the phone call. You can also set the default time of the message transfer. For example, when you receive a call from a customer, you can answer this call from your desk by using CTI for MS-CRM Integration. However, if you are away from your desk, you can transfer the call to your mobile phone. You can add your computer to the workflow as the proxy. You can use this option to let the caller leave his phone number in CTI and have the computer enter the number. We use our own cookies
