The court concluded that the arbitrator's award was incorrect as a matter of law because it was "in excess of his powers" under the terms of the agreement as construed by the court. Id. at 7.
The court stated: Clearly, the arbitrator was not construing Article 4.2 of the collective bargaining agreement; he was modifying it by creating a new method of calculating damages.
This he had no power to do. "Where an arbitrator is commissioned to interpret and apply the collective bargaining agreement, he is to bring his informed judgment to bear in order to reach a fair solution of a problem. This is especially true because his judgment is most experienced in fashioning solutions to labor disputes." Id. at 10 (citations omitted). The arbitrator in the present case was not construing or applying the PPO agreement. He was modifying the provisions of the agreement to allow the employer to shorten work weeks in 1987 and amend the beginning of pay
