The conclusions that we reach in this opinion are that the defendant police officers received all of the rights accorded to them under the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution and article I, section 7 of the Constitution of the State of Tennessee and that they, therefore, are not liable for damages under any theory. It follows that it was correct for the trial judge to have directed a verdict for the defendants. The judgment of the trial court is affirmed. MEMORANDUM OPINION ON PETITION TO REHEAR The State of Tennessee has filed a petition to rehear in this case. The petition focuses on our treatment of the facts which led to the arrest of the defendant. We have reconsidered the entire case and we adhere to our earlier opinion. The petition is denied. HARBISON, C. J., and FONES, COOPER, and BROCK, JJ., concur. Surgical resection and radiation therapy for glioblastoma: which is better? Glioblastoma, the most common malignant brain tumor in adults, is characterized by a high proliferative rate and diffuse infiltration into brain parenchyma. Surgical resection and radiation therapy represent the current standard treatment of glioblastoma. In practice, patients with glioblastoma can generally be divided into two subgroups, which correspond to the location of the tumor relative to the cerebral ventricles. In primary glioblastoma, the

Q: asp.net mvc redirecting to "/" for post requests I'm developing a simple job portal app in asp.net MVC and have a problem. If I send a post request from a mobile device to the app it simply hangs. If I go to the url provided in the app and do a GET request it works fine. Any ideas? A: You say you're using POST requests, so there's nothing wrong with the request on the server itself. I have no idea what kind of HTTP client you're using, but with something like this you would start by ensuring the request is OK by setting a breakpoint and inspecting the HTTP request in IIS. The specific response you need to look for could be anything. You could log the response and the client request and compare them. Something like the following should work as a starting point var url = new Uri(Request.Url.AbsoluteUri) .Dump(); //... var request = (HttpRequest)WebRequest.Create(url); request.Method = "GET"; //... All this comes together in a full experience that spans. 9.5/10 If you're not reading this review then I'm not going to say anything more about the game. No clip-art! No virtual walkthrough! No details! Nope! What I'll tell you about it is that they made a game that is a blatant rip-off of the first game. Oh, and I play the first game a lot...but let's not dwell in negativity. Nerd Attack is similar to the first game in a number of ways. You've
