Thanks for any help. A: You need to use "system" not "systemd" in crontab -e. "systemd" is the service manager. For instance, as an example if I run this command: crontab -l It gives me this: [john@laptop ~]$ crontab -l # For information on how to configure your crontab see # # m h dom mon dow user command # # # m Minute (0-59) # h Hour (0-23) # dom Day of month (1-31) # mon Month of year (1-12 or January-December) # dow Day of week (0-6) (Sunday=0 or Monday=1) # user User name # # m h dom mon dow user command # 0 * * * root cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.hourly 30 5 * * root test -x /usr/sbin/anacron || ( cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.daily ) 0 5 * * root test -x /usr/sbin/anacron || ( cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.weekly ) #0 5 * * root test -x /usr/sbin/anacron || ( cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.monthly ) 1 * * 1 root test -x /usr/sbin/anacron || ( cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.daily ) #1 2 * * root test -x /usr/sbin/anacron || ( cd / && run-parts --report /etc/cron.monthly ) # For information

How do you know when you should feel like you've married the love of your life? Is there a way to know for sure? I think the answer comes from the old fashioned adage that one should never feel like you've married the love of your life. . You need to be 100% sure before you take this huge step. And the way to do that is to follow a little tip that's been around for centuries. The little tip comes from the ancient art of love. And for this technique to work, you need to be a man or woman that's completely ready for marriage. Which means you need to be in a great place in your life. If you're not there, then you shouldn't attempt this. . Not to put too fine a point on it, but you really need to be 100% sure that the person you want to marry is the person you want to marry. Because if you aren't 100% sure, then there's always a chance that you will regret your decision. . . . Anyway, I'll leave you guys here. And hopefully I see you next week. And until next time, do take care. . Genetic association between apolipoprotein E and brain infarction in the stroke-prone spontaneously hypertensive rat. Sudden cardiac death is a major cause of death in patients with spontaneous hypertensive stroke-prone (SHR-SP) rats. While the mechanism of sudden death is not yet fully understood, cerebral atherosclerosis, related to ApoE and atrial natriuretic peptide (ANP), has been considered to be associated with cerebrovascular injury and premature heart failure. This study investigated whether the expression of ApoE and ANP genes is associated with the occurrence of cerebral infarction in young SHR-SP rats. The brains and hearts were removed from the SHR-SP rats, which were injected intravenously with isoproterenol and killed at 2, 4, or 12 months of age. Expression of ApoE and ANP genes was examined by Northern blot analysis using rat cDNA probes, and ApoE and ANP proteins were measured by Western blotting. The SHR-SP rats developed cerebral infarction at a rate of approximately 30% at 2 months. At 4 months of age, the incidence
