Robinho reportedly has a year left on his current deal with the San Siro club.The former Piazza has been at AC Milan for the last five seasons. More recently, he's been playing as a first-team regular and scored in the Italian champions' last two games against Palermo and Lecce. The report goes on to claim that Milan are aware of Robinho's desire to leave and have been gauging the player's intentions. Milan's leading English-based reporters Adriano Galliani, Paolo Berlusconi and Silvio Baldini are the people in charge of the negotiations. Milan could be reluctant to let Robinho leave, considering he's a regular first-team player. The Rossoneri midfielder has been linked with moves to Juventus, Lazio and both Manchester clubs. Last season he was the joint third highest scorer for Milan. We've also given you the chance to win tickets for Milan's matches against Udinese and Napoli.
